SENATOR'S PLAN

Mr. Chandler's View of Recent Traffic Agreement

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Speaking of the agreement signed in New York yesterday by the officers of the Joint Traffic Association, Senator Chandler to-day said: "I have not examined the contract in detail. Apparently the railroad managers have been trying during six months to modify the agreement so as to avoid appearing to violate the law. Yet it now stands as a trust agreement in restraint of trade and commerce, the making of the rates for every road being committed to the board representing all the roads, so that no road can lower any of its rates to the public without violating the agreement."

"The provision for fixing each road which may break the agreement and using the fine for the benefit of the other roads is an illegal division of earnings. The President, the attorney general and Chairman Morrison can easily defeat the agreement by procuring the indictment of all the signers under both the anti-trust and anti pooling statutes. The railroads in the agreement that the managers do not intend to violate the interstate commerce law is the meanest subterfuge ever attempted to be imposed upon an intelligent community. The law now explicitly forbids pooling agreements and trusts like this."

"The whole object of the railroad presidents is to make a trust and a pooling agreement and it is barefaced effrontery to insert this desire to observe the law. I cannot add anything to my emphatic utterance concerning this crime to what I have said in my letters to the President and his subordinates. If this trust can delibately and defiantly trample upon national law no trust can be suppressed in America."

IN REGARD TO FILIBUSTERS.

The United States Will Not Interfere Merely to Detain Arms, Men or Vessels.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—It can be definitely stated that in dealing with filibusters against Spanish authority in Cuba, the United States will not take any action for the sole purpose of securing delay or restoring arms to masters of vessels who, upon trial, have been acquitted of the charge brought against them. Recently a United States attorney instituted a proceeding for libel against a suspected vessel which was dismissed because of some technical irregularity.

To-day he was instructed by the government to reinstate the proceeding and prosecute it if, in his opinion, there was reason to believe that a judgment for the Government should and could be recovered, and that no proceeding should be instituted or returned to the docket merely for the purpose of detaining arms or men or vessels. The duty and object of the Government, this high authority declared, was the observance and enforcement of the neutrality laws with rigid impartiality.

Train Wreckers Confess.

ROME, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Hildreth, Hibbard and Late, three of the lads implicated in the wrecking of the New York Central train near this place Tuesday morning, have fully confessed. They will be put on trial for murder in the first degree, but owing to their youth it is likely that they will only be convicted of murder in the second degree, the penalty for which is imprisonment for life.

Hildreth told the officers to-day that the attempt to wreck a train ten days ago was directed against the one which passes Rome for the East at 12:32 a. m., and which often carries rich express bullion. Later the boys changed their minds, and decided that the mail train would be better, because, besides the mail, the passengers were likely to be wealthy people.

SENATOR SHERMAN TALKS.

He Becomes Reminiscent Over Old Issues and Criticizes the Democrats of To-day.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Senator John Sherman, of Ohio, talked freely to a reporter to-day in regard to his recently published book and other matters. The Senator stated that he had met ex-President Harrison and Warner Miller and had had pleasant chats with them. He added that Mr. Miller came to his (the Senator's) room last evening and they talked over many of the incidents of the convention of 1888. Mr. Miller's recollection of events tallied with the Senator's.

"The New York delegation," added the Senator, "had a banquet on Saturday night before the nomination of 1888, and after Senator Miller had made a speech they all agreed to support me. I received a telegram to that effect. Sunday intervened, and, in the meantime, Elkins and other friends of Harrison got Mr. Platt to agree to vote for him on the first ballot Monday. The result is known."

"I have no charges to make against ex-President Harrison and our relations are pleasant. Whatever bargains or promises his friends might have made, he did not sanction them, because he absolutely refused to appoint Mr. Platt Secretary of the Treasury. The same of Mr. Platt's ambition seems to be to hold the portfolio of Secretary of the Treasury."

In regard to the national convention of 1880, when Garfield was nominated, he said that when he saw that the drift was for Garfield he telegraphed to his friends to swing the Ohio delegation for him. "Garfield was an able and brilliant man in some respects," he continued, "but he did not have strong will-power. He permitted men of stronger will-force to influence him."

"I will remember that after he was elected President and had selected Mr. Blaine as Secretary of State he came to me and said that he would like to appoint me Secretary of the Treasury, but Mr. Blaine thought it would be embarrassing to other members of Mr. Hayes' cabinet to select one member and not take them all."

The Senator laughed at the sophistry of Mr. Garfield and continued: "I informed him that I did not desire to be appointed Secretary of the Treasury and announced my intention to become a candidate for the Senate."

The Senator said he considered Warner Miller a strong man and remarked that he had made an able Senator. He then turned his attention to Secretary Carlisle's speech.

The basic error of the speech, he maintained, was the Secretary's idea that legal tenders could be done away with entirely. It could not be done, he said in substance: "The great mistake was in the way the Democratic administration had tampered with the gold reserve. It should have issued short bonds of five years' duration, which the people here would have taken up quickly at 3 per cent., and with this paid the expenses of the government instead of intrenching on the gold reserve."

These short bonds, of course, would have been paid for in legal tender notes. Instead of doing this, the administration had permitted domestic and foreign bankers to clear $11,000,000 by selling bonds for gold at 4 per cent. Carlisle's plan, proposed last night, was impracticable. There are 3,000 national banks, and it would not do, in order to have currency, to take the gold out of the United States Treasury and scatter it around in these banks to redeem money that had been issued by these banks."

The Senator said he did not know when the Republicans would be able to organize the Senate. When it came to an issue in regard to money he thought the East would be against the West, irrespective of party. As long as Cleveland was President, he said, there would be no silver legislation, because he favored sound money.

The paper which was laid on the table some days ago, concerning the grading of those who have applied for admission into the conference, was taken up and referred to a special committee to report to the next conference. The committee will be named by the bishop presiding. A proposition to require written examinations of applicants was also referred to the same committee.

Bishop Granberry here introduced the Rev. Mark Levy, an Israelite, now a believer in Christ, and the conference and congregation rose to receive him. Rev. Mr. Levy made an address expressing his thanks for the reception given him. When he was converted his family would not recognize him at first, but they were afterwards reconciled to him.

When the Passover came, he was ready to fast, and keep it with his family, because he was then better able to show them the incompleteness of it and point them to Christ. He begged God's blessing on the conference and from the church came up a hearty volley of amen. A telegram was received from Bishop A. G. CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 20.—The most important witness examined to-day at the coroner's inquest in the Central viaduct horror was Augustus Rogers, the motorman of the ill-fated car, which plunged into the river. He testified that the conductor ran ahead when the car stopped at the safety switch and signaled him "all right." He stated that the glass in the vestibule was blurred by rain and that he did not discover that the bridge was open until his car was within about thirty feet of the gates. He then turned off the current, set the brake and jumped. He testified that he saw no red light and believed that there had been one displayed he would have seen it. He admitted that he had been misled by the fact that the electric cut off provided by the street railway company as a safeguard was out of order.

The caboose was badly wrecked, but the other cars were only slightly damaged. The men who were at work upon the bin fled to the opposite side of the large platform amidst a shower of splinters when the crash came and thus escaped injury.

IT NOW LOOKS LESS LIKE WAR

Views of the Russian Ambassador at Constantinople.

The Armenians at Constantinople Are Threatened With No Danger.—In the Provinces There Have Been Regrettable Conflicts Caused by the Armenians, Who Were Instigated by Their Revolution Committees—He Advises Peace.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 20.—A dispatch received here from Tiflis, Russian Trans-Caucasia, says that the Armenian Catholics has received a reply to the communication which he recently sent to the Russian ambassador here, M. De Nilidoff. It is as follows: The Armenians of Constantinople are now reassured. They are threatened with no danger. In the provinces, however, there are regrettable conflicts which, in most cases, were caused by the Armenians, who were instigated by their revolutionary committees. The result is terrible revenge on the part of the Turks in the shape of horrible massacres of Christians.

The sultan has sanctioned the scheme for reforms submitted by the three great powers and preparations are now proceeding to carry them out. To this end it is necessary that the leaders of the people should persuade the latter to desist from revolutionary attempts, to abandon the idle hope of foreign intervention, to put a stop to all disturbances and to cooperate in the re-establishment of universal peace, in improving the situation and in the introduction of the new order of things.

As intimated in these dispatches during the last few days, the attitude of the Porte, or of the sultan, has undergone a decided change since the other fleets began to join the British fleet in the naval demonstration in Salonica bay. There is no doubt that the pressure brought to bear upon the sultan has been strong enough to make him take personal charge of the work of reform in Armandat, and it is now hoped that there will be no further bloodshed except in the case of putting down the insurrections which have broken out against the Turkish rule in different parts of Asia Minor.

It is hoped, however, that the Armenian clergy will be able to induce their co-religionists to lay down their arms, especially as the sentiment of the whole of Europe is now in favor of the sultan, whose evident desire to meet the views of the powers is thoroughly appreciated and has undoubtedly aided over a most difficult crisis in the East.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 20.—The last hope that remained to Harry Hayward for his life was wrested from him when the supreme court this morning handed down a long opinion affirming the action of the lower court in denying him a new trial. Harry Hayward turned pale when the decision was announced to him, but would say nothing more than: "It was just what I expected." He is apparently without hope.
